closet. There are more men in Congress than there ought to be whose private life will not bear a strong light. Well enough behaved at home, when they get to Washington they give a loose rein to their impulses and make themselves shining marks for the blackmailer's practices.

If the police ware to tell what they know about them, and all that they can find out, there would be a terrible rattling among the dry bones. The idea of policem on using their opportunities for blackmail is repulsive; but it is very unfortneate that so many public men give them og good a chance.

It was not to be expected that so large and now a force as the Knights of Labor could at once be handled successfully. It is also true, as Mr. Powderly has more than once complained, that men have rushed into the order is to realize the hopes that are centered in it, and the scoper the better.

The Kuights ought to be able to profit by their obvicous mistakes. Every man who was in the Scuthwestern railroad strike knows that was a mistake of a very coulty kind. The same is true of the packers' strike in Chicago. The Chicago affair, though speedily terminated, is less excusable, for the men had been warned against it by their central authority. They knew that Mr. Powderly and the General Executive Board did not approve of an eight-hour move at that time and in that way. The late strikers have reluct-cash to speed the profit of the packers' to exhack to work.

In the same is true of the packers' carbon the fellow who beats him a tight-bellied and cut, and when you play; so or a cight-hour move at that time and in that way. The late strikers have reluctively the same that the and in that way. The late strikers have reluctively the same that time and in that way. The late strikers have reluctively the same that the card are well shuffled and cut, and when you find a chronic relative the control to the co of an eight-hour move at that time and in that way. The late strikers have reluctantly obeyed the order to go back to work.

But they find that their strike has created some new conditions not so easily removed. When they went out other men "Did you get it on the battlefield?" moved. When they went out other men were admitted to the places of some of were admitted to the places of some of them, and these new men are not to be discharged if they give satisfaction and discharged if they give satisfaction and desire to remain. Besides this, the strike desire to remain. Besides this, the strike demorshized the business to a considerable extent, and some of the strikers who may eventually get back will have to wait. It is estimated that not more than wait. It is estimated that not more than one in four of the old men will now be Mrs. Phobe Cheeley, Peterson, Cla able to resume their old places. Here a capital error appears very clear-

Here a capital error appears very clearly. The "obedience and discipline" upon which Mr. Powderly insists for the preservation of the order ought to be insisted upon, if possible, before a strike is declared. That is the time to prevent trouble and disaster and to prevent new men from taking the places of the old. If this cannot be done it must very greatly weaken the power of the order, which ought to be fitted for the following remarkable story, the truth of which is vouched for by the truth of which is vouched for by the residents of the town: "I am 73 years could not dress myself without help. If the head of the order is to be obeyed at all, it is quite wendell Phillips was in the habit of ocasionally calling in at Woodbury, a Cafe, astrike as well as break one.

JAPAN.

Litracts from an Interesting Letter of Consult John M. Birch.

The following are extracts taken from a letter of U. S. Consul John M. Birch, Nacasaki, Janan, to a friend in this city:

As wendell Phillips was in the habit of ocasionally calling in at Woodbury, a Cafe, Hotel Boylston, and ordering simply a cup of coffice. Mr. Woodbury says that his card price for a cup of coffice was five cents, but Mr. Phillips, knowing the fact, always persisted in psying ten cents for its cup, declaring that "he thought a cup of good coffee was always worth as much as a glaze of poor rum." important that his word shall prevent a

"We got a mail October 2 which left San Francisco September 4, giving accounts of the earthquake in the Southern States, which were very interesting. Here we are

Strange to say there has not been one in Nagasaki, Japan, to a friend in this city:

liable to an earthquake at any moment and all the houses are built accordingly. Strange to say there has not been one in this portion of Japan since my arrival. There have been several on the main island Nippou, but the island of Kinehin has been free from them for a period of about two years.

The cholera has been raging with virulence throughout the Empire. The deaths will reach 50,000, it is thought. Here in Negasaki we have had the disease, and the port was declared injected in July, but the experience of last summor has not been repeated, the daily number of new cases and the death rate being decidedly below isst year's reports, when been repeated, the daily number of new cases and the death rate being de cidedly below last year's reports, when both ran into the hundreds. This is due, no doubt, to the excellent sanitary precautionary measures taken by the authorities last spring.

The Japanese type of cholers seems to pass by the foreigners. Even the Ohinese soldom take it, dirty as they are in their manner and habits of living. I think it would be interesting for physicians to study the Japanese and their peculiant diseases. Cholers and smallpox break out every year. They care, however, very little for the latter disease. The people seem to be subject to all the diseases which we attribute at home to dirt and fifth, yet they are the cleanest people in the world in their homes, food, person, etc. The lowest class, the coolie, takes his warm bath daily. Cleanliness seems to be a part of their religion.

The Chinese and Japanese, who regard each other with feelings of hatred, come together—about 1,000 of them—in a fight a short time since in which 10 were killed and from 75 to 100 wounded. There is a commission composed of representatives of both nations now investigating the meles, but the prospect of an early settlement of the matter is not favorable. The Chinese hate the Japanese for their progressive rentiments and ready adoption of Western ideas. The Japanese, on the other hand despise the bigotry of the Chinese, and look down upon them as inferior. Whenever the lower classes come together, as happened during the visit of the Chinese squadron to this port, there is trouble.
